

The original location of Dairy Queen in Woodstock was on the south side of Ingersoll Road just before the tracks in 1952. It's been at its current location at the corner of Dundas St. and York since 1956.

The original Woodstock Y.M.C.A. was located at the corner of Wellington and Dundas St. at the current location of Canada Trust. The ceremony to lay the cornerstone of the new facility happened on October 7, 1907.

A metal box placed in the stone included contemporary copies of the weekly and daily local papers, copies of the Toronto Globe and the Toronto Mail, some coins of current issue, a copy of Rod and Gun magazine, then published in Woodstock along with other items reflective of the times. In 1971 the new family Y.M.C.A. (opened in 1962) was broken into. The coins were stolen and the newspapers were ripped to shreds.

Percy Shaw inventor of the world renowned invention, the cats eye, was born in Halifax, West Yorkshire. Jim Callaghan, Roads Minister, ordered their introduction in 1947. Eventually, there were 400 on every mile of motorway, and more than 20 million across the country. It was voted the greatest design of the 20th century in 2001, ahead of Concorde.

- Who was Laika?
- Who was Ehrich Weiss? Does the answer to this one escape you?
- What is a Rya?
- What is a Quetzal?

Scallops have as many as 100 simple eyes. They're frequently blue.

The Catholic Church once put a dead Pope on trial. After Pope Formosus died in A.D. 896, his successor had him disinterred, dressed in papal robes and set up to face a laundry list of political charges. The cadaver lost.

Two cannibals were eating a clown – one said to the other, 'Does he taste funny to you?'
